

CLAIMS OF G. O. P. TO BE PUNCTURED AT BRYAN DINNER

Proprietorship of Prosperity
Idea and Control of Crops
Doctrine Going.

Rayner and New Yorker of Note Will Be Among Speakers.

That the Republican party's pretensions to the exclusive proprietorship of prosperity have received a shock which will hardly fail to impress the country, is the sentiment which Democratic leaders propose vigorously to employ as a means to drawing together the elements of their party for a great contest next year.

The harmony movement is to receive its baptism at the big banquet in Washington the evening of November 23, at the Raleigh, when some surprises will be sprung.

Aside from Mr. Bryan, there will be four speakers. Two of them will be men who have never been known as adherents of the Bryan wing of the party. One will probably be Senator Rayner of Maryland, than whom heretofore there has been no more ardent critic of Bryan's Democracy. Another man whose appearance as an endorser of Bryan and pleader for harmony will cause wonder is a New Yorker, a national character, and has heretofore been aligned with the anti-Bryan wing of the party.

Washington to Have Toastmaster.

The toastmaster will be a Washington man, and the list of speakers will also include a middle Western Democrat of national note.

This must be of the plans for the banquet was stated today by Willis J. Abbott, a member of the committee on arrangements, and one of the close friends of Mr. Bryan.

The Republican party has long posed as the especial guardian of prosperity, said Mr. Abbott, "its assumptions of intimate partnership with Providence and the weather authorities, as a result of which good crops have grown and favorable weather has prevailed at harvest time; its arrogation to itself of special virtue by reason of the great increase in the world's gold supply; its insistence that Republican times are always good times, and Democratic times always uniformly bad ones; its presumption that Republican policies are guided by a wisdom which makes financial or industrial misfortune impossible under a Republican administration—these most valuable assets of the Republican party have gone to a discount of late. The time has come for an awakening. The country is awake. It has discovered the real value of these Republican claims. It is only for the Democrats to get together, bury their differences, and carry the country. That they are going to do. The forthcoming banquet will, we think, remove all doubt of either their ability or their wish to do this."

It has been widely assumed that at the Washington banquet Mr. Bryan is to announce his final determination as to whether he will be a candidate. There is no ground for this statement according to Mr. Abbott.

Conferring With Rayner.

The appearance of Senator Rayner of Maryland as a speaker at the banquet will be a political event of the greatest significance. It is learned that a representative of the committee on arrangements is in Baltimore today for conference with both Senator Rayner and Governor Warfield. It is added that New York's representative in the list of speakers will be one whose appearance will have no less significance. The names of William R. Hearst and

BATTLE FIERCE AT VLADIVOSTOK; AMERICAN HURT

VLADIVOSTOK, Nov. 1.—The crew of the torpedo boat destroyer Skory was not alone in Wednesday's mutiny. The Skory, Treveshny, and Serdity hoisted the red flag simultaneously. On the Skory the commander was slain, and the other officers overpowered. The entire crew of fifty were included in the uprising, and the fight was brief.

There were loyal sailors, however, on the destroyers Treveshny and Serdity, who rushed to their officers' assistance. The fight was desperate for a time, but the loyalists were victorious. But for the delay the Skory would have been sent to the bottom almost immediately. The battle on the Treveshny and the Serdity gave the third destroyer time to steam from the quay into the harbor, however, and to fire repeatedly into the town.

Many Killed or Wounded.

The damage to the city was far greater than the military authorities have hitherto permitted to become known. Many of the largest buildings were partly demolished by the shells. The extent of the loss of life is concealed by the commandment, but a large number of soldiers and civilians are known to have been killed or wounded.

Though the preceding day's mutiny of the sappers had caused considerable uneasiness among the army officers, the extent of the conspiracy was wholly unexpected, and the outbreak on the three destroyers caught the loyalists completely unprepared.

Instead of concentrating in the attack on their officers, a part of the crews of the Treveshny and Serdity seem to have devoted themselves first to an effort to man the guns and get away from the quay.

Mutineers Shot Down.

The loyal men took advantage of this division in the forces against them and, after fighting themselves clear of their assailants swept the decks, their revolvers in their hands, shooting down all who opposed them. How many were killed and wounded is not yet known.

The crews of the gunboat Manchur and the destroyers Groszovoi and Serdity did not know the battle was in progress until the first shot shrieked from the Skory into the barracks on shore.

The forts answered the fire almost instantly, but without hitting them. The Skory proceeded to send shot after shot into the barracks and among the government buildings, all of which are in plain view of the harbor.

The Manchur, Groszovoi, and Serdity had steamed out to the Skory in the meantime, and, attacking it from three sides, pierced it through and through with their shots. The mutineers fought desperately. The boat was quickly ridged, however, fire broke out fore and aft, and just as the attempt was made to beach the boat the boilers blew up.

Rebels Commit Suicide.

Many of the mutineers committed suicide before the Skory reached shore. The number killed in attempting a landing was comparatively small. The crew having been almost shot to pieces or blown into the air by the time the boat reached the beach.

American Wounded.

The American wounded by the fire from the Skory is Harry Nietert, employed in the Pacific Commercial Company's building, which was struck by a shell.

Gen. Count Unterberger, commanding the Amur district, has arrived here, and assumed control of the situation. The town is still under martial law.

Senator Bailey, of Texas, have been used in connection with places at the Skory's table. It can be said that neither of these names was on the tentative list of ten speakers which was given to the committee on speakers, from which to select the four who should appear.

PAUL MORTON SEES PRESIDENT; MEETS CABINET

Insurance President
Leaves White House
After Speaking in Parables.

Former Secretary of the Navy Paul Morton, now head of the Equitable Life Assurance Association, spent an hour in the President's office this morning and lingered half an hour after the Cabinet convened. When he emerged from the room where the President and his advisers were in session he shook his head solemnly and said he had "nothing to say" in reply to the queries showered upon him.

"Haven't you anything to say regarding the New York financial situation?" the head of the Equitable was asked.

"Not a word," he replied. Then he added, as if to illustrate his point, "You've heard the story about the New Yorker who was broke and asked for enough money to buy a ferry ticket?"

"No one had heard it, but every one wanted to listen."

"Haven't you a single cent?" asked the man who was touched, continued Mr. Morton.

"Not a red. I'm broke, dead broke," replied the other, "and what's more, I haven't any prospects."

"Then what difference does it make what side of the river you're on?" asked the borrower.

Mr. Morton's hearers laughed at the joke, but no one could just tell how the story applied to the New York financial situation unless it meant that all New York was "busted."

Before going, Mr. Morton finally said that he believed that every day was bringing the country "nearer to better times. When he was asked how soon he expected the times to be "good" again and the money troubles all over, he answered:

"You've heard of the old farmer who was praying for rain? When some one asked him if he expected the rain to come in answer to his prayer, he answered: 'It always has.'"

GEN. BELL TO QUIT MULDOON'S.

Gen. J. Franklin Bell, chief of staff, will leave Muldoon's Sanitarium today and return to this city tomorrow. He has completed a month's recuperation, and is reported to be in excellent health.

OKLAHOMA PLUMS READY TO PLUCK

Politicians Worried About
Who Will Gather in Lucrative Offices.

Okahoma plums are nearly ripe at the White House. Just who will be the lucky ones to pick them is being asked with breathless interest by dozens of stalwart citizens from the new State, who are camping at the Willard Hotel between the visits they make to the President's office.

Two Federal judgeships, two United States district attorneys, and two United States marshalships are the biggest prizes that will be given out, and as each of them means patronage and prestige there is unusual interest in the struggle.

Delegate Maguire, of Oklahoma, the only Republican elected to Congress in the vanishing Territory, called at the White House today to introduce several friends.

"Did you hear anything about the appointments?" he was asked when he emerged from the President's office.

"Not a thing," he replied. "I wish I could hear. I haven't met any one yet who has a line on the subject."

POPE'S NEPHEW SLAIN; PIUS IS INCONSOLABLE

Hitchcock Seen, Says a Friend

Canada, probably with the intention of sailing for Europe from Montreal or Halifax.

The McKenzies girl, it was learned today, fell into the hands of the Gerry Society last fall, and in a confession, accused the actor of causing her downfall. Later she became reconciled to her parents, and returned to her home.

For some reason, not yet explained, an attempt was planned for today to obtain the freedom of Miss Voelck and Helen von Hagen, two of the little girls who testified before the grand jury against Hitchcock. The former is in the House of Mercy and the latter in the House of the Good Shepherd. The managers of these institutions were served with writs of habeas corpus, directing them to produce the girls in the supreme court at White Plains.

Hitchcock Insane, Alienist Asserts; Long Known Him

AUBURN, N. Y., Nov. 1.—"I have not the slightest doubt that Raymond Hitchcock is insane," says Dr. Frederick Sifton, alienist of national reputation, former assistant superintendent of the State Hospital for Criminal Lunatics, present head of the Pines, a private asylum here, and a friend of Hitchcock and his family for years. Many of Hitchcock's friends agree with Dr. Sifton.

"I know his father was insane," continues Dr. Sifton, "and, as I have known Ray since 1888, I have found many symptoms of insanity. His father, the late Charles A. Hitchcock, was insane for many years before his death. I have met Ray here and at New York clubs. Since he has been a Broadway actor and within the last few years, I have noticed strange lapses in his memory."

The theory of the actor's friends is that the shock of the arrest and the accusations against him, in connection with the mental obliquities of which he speaks, drove him completely from his balance, and that he was probably absolutely out of his mind when he disappeared.

Hitchcock's democratic spirit, his modesty despite success, his loyalty to his home town, have made him exceedingly popular here, and only sympathy is expressed for him in his troubles.

"I've known Hitchcock since we were boys together in the Storke Cadets," says another friend of the missing comedian, "I firmly believe he is and was insane."

Flora Zabelle's Father Says She May Ask Divorce

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—The Rev. Dr. M. M. Mangasarian, father-in-law of Raymond Hitchcock, made this statement today:

"Only last night I got a letter from Flora asserting that Raymond had vowed to her that he would divorce her and that she believed him implicitly. That was written before his disappearance, of course. How she feels about it, I don't know. It is certain that she discovers the accusations to have been true she will apply for divorce."

"I don't know," said Mr. Hitchcock, and have seen little of him. My daughter knows her rights and has the means with which to see that they are defended."

"My daughter is welcome to come here at any time. We have always been on the best terms with her and she with us. While Mr. Hitchcock has not been here often it was not because of any trouble."

ENRICH COFFERS, HUMANE SOCIETY MOTIVE CHARGED

That the agents of the Washington Humane Society have made many arrests more for the purpose of enriching the coffers of the association than from humanitarian motives was the charge made at a hearing given by the Commissioners today to the Horse Owners' Protective Association, an organization composed of 30 members, representing 2,500 horses. It was alleged also that James L. Pugh, assistant corporation counsel, whose duty it is to conduct the prosecution of those charged with cruelty to animals, is the paid legal adviser of the Humane Society and therefore not in a position to act as an unprejudiced prosecuting attorney.

Under the present law, all fines and forfeitures resulting from alleged cruelty to animals go to the support of the Humane Society. As a result of this it was declared by the horse owners that the society is developing into a money-making institution, and that its agents make a number of arrests for trivial causes for the purpose of adding to its revenues.

sympathy is expressed for him in his troubles.

"I've known Hitchcock since we were boys together in the Storke Cadets," says another friend of the missing comedian, "I firmly believe he is and was insane."
